Council rejects center planned at busy corner

By Don Green

Citing concerns over building height, traffic congestion and future tenants, the Upland City Council Monday night rejected an application for a shopping center near the southeast corner of Foothill Boulevard and Mountain Avenue.

The council denied a request by Vanguard Builders, Inc., of Cucamonga for a conditional - use permit to develop a center including a full - service restaurant, motel, office building and commercial shops.

Mayor Pro Tem John McCarthy joined Councilwoman Ina Petokas and Councilman Bill Bottin in defeating the request on a 3-2 vote.

Vanguard Builders will have to resubmit its application for a conditional - use permit, requiring payment of another $490, and council members indicated the firm has some questions to answer before the seven - acre project would be approved.

The council heard City Engineer Fred Blanchard say 25,000 cars travel Mountain Avenue at Foothill Boulevard daily.

He said traffic on Mountain surpasses that on Foothill Boulevard itself, with the north - south avenue now rivaling Euclid Avenue as the busiest street in Upland.

Blanchard said that additional traffic generated by the shopping center could cause problems, but pointed out that a driveway access to the center had been relocated to prevent possible congestion with vehicles turning into Stater Brothers center on the west side of Mountain Avenue.

Bottin said the city was "trying to cram too much in there" (the vicinity of Mountain and Foothill). He expressed concern over the effect the project might have on Mountain Avenue traffic and said the council should discuss the possible impact on surrounding areas and their property values, particularly residential land.

David Miraglia — representing residents of Golden Rain Street, which extends directly east from the proposed center — said the three story motel and three - story office building pose a fire hazard and a threat to residents' privacy.

"I can't see how we can build a 40 - foot building and expect to fight a fire with a 35 - foot ladder,"

Miraglia said

He said the three - story buildings might hurt the city's fire - insurance rating, increasing residents' premiums.

He added that visitors to the motel would be able to peer into his backvard from the third floor.

Planning Associate Bob Nastase explained that Vanguard Builders had not yet specified the heights of the motel and office building and that the actual heights of the buildings would vary because of the southward - sloping grade.

Councilman Hal Bailin disagreed with Miraglia's characterization of a 40 - foot building as a "highrise" and added that homeowners near Foothill Boulevard had to expect that commercial development would eventually come in nearby.

Mrs. Petokas expressed concern that the council was being asked to approve the conditional - use permit without knowing who would own the motel and what type it would be.

She said the motel part of the development seemed to be speculative, depending on approval of Expo 81, the World's Fair proposed for the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Los Olivos ring joint community-police project

Boys trade punches to inaugurate ring

By Don Green

The thud of large gloves protecting small hands and the cheers of tenants and friends provided appropriate ruffles and flourishes when a boxing ring was dedicated last week at the Los Olivos housing project.

Perhaps 150 spectators attended the ceremony and boxing matches that followed Nov. 2 at Upland's new ring, built at Los Olivos through the efforts of tenants and the police department with contributions from the Kiwanis Club of Upland, the Upland Rotary and the Upland Police Officers' Association.

The ring measures 18 feet by 18 feet on a concrete foundation next to the Los Olivos recreation hall and features red, white and blue ropes with the familiar Everlast trademark on the corner pads.

Police Chief Coy Estes explained that the police department approached residents of Los Olivos earlier this year with the idea of helping sponsor a sport that would keep youths active and out of trouble.

Boxing was the overwhelming choice of the boys at Los Olivos, Estes said.

Gus Ramos Jr., director of the Upland Housing Authority, noted that talk of ring construction at Los Olivos began two years ago.

He called the project "unique because it was neighborhood initiated."

Luis Fuentes, chairman of the tenants' council, said construction of the ring required some 250 worker - hours of labor to finish, adding that the boys now using the ring helped build it.

"It's bettering the community all the way around," he said.

Crispin Perez, a Los Olivos resident and trainer for the boxing program, said 10 boys, 8-15 years old, are training almost daily with another 15 traveling occasionally from Ontario, Montclair and Pomon to work out.

He expects the program to grow as instruction is not limited to just young residents of Los Olivos.

Perez, who has been volunteering his time, will work through the recreation department and be paid with federal funds under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

Reflecting on his own scrapes with law, Perez said, "That's what my main concern is: to keep others from going through what a lot of us went through."

Council postpones

hearing on fees

Council consideration of new fees for residential development was postponed for the fourth time Monday night after representatives of the Upland Chamber of Commerce and the Baldy View Chapter of the Building Industry Association asked for more time to study the proposal.

Chamber president Harry Crowell said the higher fee scheduled had been "drastically changed" since the initial plan and asked for the continuance. Richard Lewis, representing the building association, agreed.

The hearing was continued until Dec. 5.

Perez is a former boxer who fought as a semipro.

Asked why boxing was selected, Fuentes said, "Boxing is a sport Chicanos are very much into."

Estes, who boxed in Golden Gloves competition and while serving in the Air Force, noted that Mexican - Americans have enjoyed great boxing success, particularly in Southern California.

In five matches that continued past twilight last week, the boys showed quick feet and zeal that pleased Perez.

"We're going to have a champion," he said after the competition.

Perez was not the only one pleased. The crowd, some sitting at ringside and others standing or settled on the surrounding grass, squealed with delight as 7 - year - old Chacho Artigas traded punches with his brother Gustavo, 8.

Onlookers particularly enjoyed the action at one point when the much smaller Chacho pushed his brother through the ropes. However, referee Bobby Sedillo, another former boxer, awarded no knockdown.

Many of those residents, friends and city officials attending the dedication, stayed until the final match between 15 - year - olds Todd Ocha and Jerry Lira.

The older boys showed more skill at fending off punches with their gloves but still lowered their guards occasionally to mix it up to the shouts of an appreciative crowd.

In keeping with the close competition and the mood of the day, all the matches were judged draws except one fight stopped when 13 - year - old Chito Rodriguez stunned Martin Trejo, 12, with a hard blow to the midsection.

However, Martin was seen Friday training in recreation hall and seemed no worst for wear.

Fuentes and Perez said they plan to schedule matches with youth groups from nearby communities, including Chino and Pomona.

Work on the ring began Aug. 5 and about 50 volunteers helped clear the ground of rocks, Fuentes said.

He said a dedicated core of about 10 workers, including Chief Estes and Lt. Gary Hart, continued efforts during weekends until the ring was complete.

Estes pointed out that cement contractor Al Rainey donated his time to help lay the foundation.

Estes said the program has helped the police department's community relations with the Los Olivos tenants. By working with the residents on construction of the ring, they "view us differently than when we're up there in an official capacity," he explained.

When the bouts were over, Estes presented a trophy to Chito Rodriguez as the youth who worked the hardest on the project.

Fuentes noted that residents of other West End communities have followed the Los Olivos boxing program closely and expressed interest in following suit.

He said none of the parents have expressed concern over possible safety hazards from boxing, and Perez pointed out that the boys wear head gear, mouthpieces, and groin belts during practice.

Their hands are wrapped and then covered with 12- or 16 - ounce gloves, as opposed to eight - ounce gloves worn by professionals, the trainer added.

Former boxer Estes called the Former boxer Estes called the sport — under close supervision — safer than "football, baseball or anything else."

Perez said the program will instill sportsmanship and conditioning. "I put them through the whole paces," he added with a smile.

"If it just helps one kid, that means a great deal to me," he said.

NEW RING — Seven - year - old Chacho Artigas throws a jab at his brother Gustavos, 8, during the first tryout held last week at the new boxing ring at the Los Olivos housing project. The brothers were featured in one of five matches that brought shouts of approval from a crowd of about 150 following dedication of the new ring. The ring was built through the combined efforts of tenants and the police department, with contributions from the Kiwanis Club of Upland, the Upland Rotary and the Upland Police Officers' Association. Pleased with the boxing, Crispin Perez, a Los Olivos resident and the program's trainer, remarked, "We're going to have a champion." (Photo by Don Green)

S.B. County begins affirmative action

San Bernardino County has started implementing its new affirmative action contract compliance program. The program is based on Executive Order 11246 which specifies that federal contractors may not discriminate against employees or job applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

An estimated 1,000 letters have already gone out to contractors, vendors and others doing business with the county advising them of the new requirements. Those seeking to do business with the county in excess of $10,000 per year, must demonstrate an employment and recruitment program aimed at improving work opportunities for women and minorities.

Contractors and vendors will be expected to demonstrate good-faith efforts to employ minorities and women at a rate consistent with their respective percentages of the work force. In San Bernardino County the figures are 19.6 percent for minorities and 36.9 percent for women.

Those bidding for county assignments whose principal place of business is outside the area will be expected to demonstrate efforts to conform to those ratios which apply at their main location.

Certain businesses are exempt from the new standards, including those who are the sole source for a service or supply, for emergency requisitions or for construction firms with 10 or fewer employees.

To implement its new program, the County Administrative Office has established a contract compliance unit within its personnel department. The unit coordinators are George T. Fitzgerald, who will specialize in construction contracts; Carla E. Triemer, specializing in vendor, lessor and services programs, and Patricia Igbokwe, specializing in public works

The Office of Federal Contract Compliance has overall responsibility for the enforcement of Executive Order 14246. Martin E. Nelson, assistant administrative officer for personnel, said, "This new department has been established to assist contractors to comply with these federal regulations.

Questions about the new compliance program should be directed to the contract compliance unit at 157 W. Fifth Street, San Bernardino, 92415.

In accordance with the

ALHS takes census of home languages

In keeping with a program mandated by the State of California Department of Education, Alta Loma High School will participate in the annual state census of limited and non-English speaking students enrolled in the school. The program, initiated because of the Chacon-Moscone Bilingual Bicultural Education Act of 1976, Title 5, California Administrative Code Regulations, requires that all California public schools, kindergarten through 12th grade, participate. It assesses achievement in basic skills of each identified limited or non-English speaking student on a yearly basis. The act also requires that each school provide a bilingual individual learning program for each identified limited or non-English speaking student as a result of an individual student evaluation and parent consultation.

In order to comply with the act, Alta Loma High School will conduct the home language survey. It identifies the primary home language and acts as a screening device for identifying children who speak another language and may be limited or non-English speaking.

An attic that's not properly insulated could wind up costing you plenty.

When your heat is on, the warm air rises. So it moves from floor to ceiling in the rooms of your house. Without adequate insulation, the heat can pass through your ceiling into your attic. This waste of heat causes your heating system to work longer and harder. That could cost you money.

By insulating, or increasing the amount of insulation in your attic, you can cut your heating costs up to 40%.

Insulation is a one-time investment that pays off year after year. So call an insulation contractor. You'll find that based on today's prices, properly insulating an attic in a typical house runs between $200 and $300. And what better place to invest your money than in your own home?

You can also look forward to saving up to 40% on your cooling cost in the summer, when it's your air conditioner's turn to go to work.

The same subject will be the topic for three other meetings - "Advantages of Breast-Feeding and Overcoming Difficulties." The sessions will be held as follows: San Dimas group, 8 to 10 p.m. Nov. 16; Alta Loma group, 8 to 10 p.m. Nov. 16; and Chino Group, 9:30 a.m. to 11:30, Nov. 22.

For meeting locations, call 593-5930 or 624-0217.

Olympics

Over 250 boys participated recently in the Old Baldy Council Cub Olympics, held at Chaffey High School.

Overall winners in the olympics were Pack 76 from the Sunrise District of Cucamonga and Etiwanda and Pack 130 from the Sunset District of Pomona. Individual boy champions included Jimmy Griffin, 8, Steve Skousen, 9 and Mike Christensen, 10, all of Pack 611 of Upland, sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints Church.

The competition, held for boys ages 8, 9 and 10, was hosted by Stewart Perkins and his staff of Troop 301 of Ontario, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Competition included push-ups, sit-ups, 50-yard dash, standing long jump, running long jump and the softball throw.

The Sense and Nonsense of an Ulcer

By Dr. W. P. Helzer, D.C.

There are a number of popular misconceptions about peptic ulcers that are interesting, but not true. For instance, the real cause is not known; some sav ulcers affect those individuals under constant strain and are re- DR HELZER medied only with complete relaxation and strict dieting. It is generally conceded that the most common cause of stomach ulcers is a high level of stomach acidity.

The level of stomach acidity is regulated by the nerves that supply the stomach. When an imbalance in these nerves exists, the stage is set for the development of an ulcer.

Irritation of the nerves going to the stomach hydrocloric acid into the stomach. These two factors, then, will combine to create irritation to the mucous lining of the inner wall of the stomach. The stomach then becomes ulcerated after a short time.

The unnaturally high level of acid in the stomach has now literally eaten its way into the inner layers of the muscular wall of the stomach it-

This is also true of duo-denal ulcers. Dietary discretion and emotional stress are not primarily responsible for the formation of an ulcer. although these factors will aggravate an ulcerate condition once it exists. It is then logical to state that a permanent correction of an ulcer will not be found in relaxation and dietary regimen alone, but can only be achieved by normalizing the nerve supply to the stomach.

The licensed Doctor of Chiropractic is a specialist in the maintenance and restoration of normal nerve function - a necessary prerequisite to health. He will direct his efforts to the speedy restoration of normal DR SEBBAS nerve transmission and the correction of the un-problem. (Note: Dr. Helzer maintains chiropractic offices at 108 East H Street, Ontario, telephone: 983-1711). (C) ARS 1975

When Your Baby Walks and Stands

It's always a major event in parental life when a baby first stands and eventually

Most baby care manuals discourage the parent from "forcing" a child to stand or walk. Such words, to a proud mother and father who continuously play with their baby and who are overly anxious for every growth development, probably fall on deaf ears.

Nevertheless, advice to let a baby's standing and walking come in its own good time is probably valid. At the time that the parent is coaxing those first little steps out of junior, the bones of his foot have not completely developed. They are, in fact, little more than an orderly arrangement of cartilage. Certainly, they are not ready to give the kind of support to the body that is necessary.

Letting baby walk in his own good time enhances the probability of proper foot bone development.

Walking readiness has nothing to do with intelligence. Generally, overweight or big framed babies will take longer to walk.

You'll find that as baby takes his first steps, he's very uncertain of his balance. He instinctively places the feet wide apart to secure as broad a base of support as possible. If he were to walk this way all the time, there would be a natural structural weakness, and his ankles would tend to roll inward because of this improper weight-bearing.

Fortunately, it's a shortlived problem. Confidence in his own ability to walk and proper footwear usually bring the feet closer together and into a proper weight-bearing position before any damage is done.

At first, the child walks with a clumsy, flat-footed gait. There's little spring in his step. The actual line of weight runs through the big toe. Gradually, with improved equilibrium, the feet draw together and the line of weight is directed between the first and second toes. Shortly, the muscles will start to function more efficiently in keeping the leg balanced over the foot. Ligaments tighten. The foot becomes compact and stronger. The fat starts to disappear. Soon the arch is taking shape.

At this point, you'll note that the child now rises on his toes with each step. There's spring in his walk He starts to move with ease and confidence.

He has started walking on a journey that will take him 65,000 miles afoot.

SANBAG rules special transit funds adequate

Local governments need not set aside more this year to expand transportation services for the elderly and handicapped, San Bernardino County's transportation planning board decided Wednesday.

In effect, the governing board of the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) declared. public transportation needs in San Bernardino County can be met through present spending, freeing money for street maintenance.

SANBAG will ask the Southern California Association of Governments to clear the allocation of $6.5 million in state transportation funds, including $4.4 million for street maintenance, to San Bernardino County and its 14 cities. The executive committee of the association, the regional planning agency for six Southern California counties, was scheduled to consider SANBAG's request today.

SANBAG's action was viewed as a setback for those who had hoped to reserve more money to expand transportation services for the elderly and handicapped this year. But most board members said they want to await a study that would pinpoint the unmet transportation needs of those two groups and determine how much it would cost to provide adequate service. The board approved the study without

The $6.5 million San Bernardino County and its 14 cities will receive in state transportation funds for the year that started July 1 is produced by a state sales tax on gasoline.

The law that authorized the tax, the 1971 Transportation Development Act, says counties and cities must first spend that money for public transportation needs.

Once local governments certify that such needs have been met, however, they can spend the money for street maintenance.

"Before you spend one dime on streets and roads," the SANBAG board should reserve an additional $500,000 to expand transportation for the elderly and handicapped in the first half of next year. Ace D. Atkinson urged.

Atkinson, who is executive director of the state Developmental Disabilities Area Planning Board for the region which includes San Bernardino County, told the SANBAG board in a letter:

'We don't believe those who are in obvious need of transit services now should have to wait for another year, or year and a half or more.'

During public hearings in July, the SANBAG board heard requests for expanded transportation services for the elderly and handicapped but had tentatively decided it couldn't accommodate them in its 1977-78

At that time, a study was proposed to determine how the unmet transportation needs of the two groups could be satisfied.

But as one supporter of expanded services said, "You've already got the money to pay the bill," and San Bernardino Mayor W.R. Holcomb

"Are you asking this board to close its eyes and put cotton in its ears ... and make a 'good faith' finding that there are no unmet needs?" Holcomb asked as he proposed that 15 percent of the funds for street maintenance be reserved for expanded transportation ser-

"I'm not going to sit here and blindly ignore this testimony," Holcomb added

But Supervisor James L. Mayfield of Apple Valley said, "I don't think a magic figure of 15 percent is going to help anyone."

Mayfield told the supporters of expanded transportation services many of whom were in wheelchairs 'We're not against you.

He and Supervisors' Chairman Robert O. Townsend of Chino, this year's SANBAG president, acknowledged that unmet transportation needs exist.

Wreath making will be shown

The Hobby Circle, a general interest group for those interested in learning about different types of arts, crafts and hobbies, will meet Monday and Tuesday mornings from 10 to 10:30 at the Upland Public Library.

Ruth Hastings will demonstrate lighted tissue wreaths that can be made on the first two days. On Monday, Nov. 14, and Tuesday, Nov. 15, jewelry in the lost wax method will be demonstrated by Wendy Atwell. Easy Christmas gifts will be the topic for Nov. 21 and 22.

There are no charges, membership or registration requirements for Hobby Circle meetings. Everyone is welcome. Anyone interested in sharing a hobby or wishing more information may call Billie Thompson at the library,

Children's story time for pre-school youngsters, led by Dorothy Farrington, story lady, will be held at the same time as the Hobby Circle. Also free, this time will feature a variety of story telling, puppets, finger games, flannel board and music activities

Attention West End Elected Officials... The Tax Payers Are Watching You!

There is a growing concern that Property Tax Revenue increases should be related to the salary increases of the renters and the homeowners. Currently wages have increased approximately 6%, yet as you can see by the following score board, most of your taxing agencies are not close to that percentage.
This 6% limitation can be met. It has been done in other areas in the state and,
as you can see in the Score Board below, has been accomplished locally in a VERY FEW cases.

Your San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors were the first to set their tax rates this year and publicly asked that other taxing agencies follow their lead. As you can see, most of the taxing agencies completely ignored their exemplory leadership.

The figures below were supplied by Bob Herbin, San Bernardino County Tax Assessor from official public records. The size of your tax bills are determined by NEITHER the County Tax Assessor nor the County Tax Collector. The size of your bills ARE determined by the taxing agencies who set the various tax rates.

WITHOUT YOUR PERSONAL ACTION, LOCAL GOVERN-MENT WILL CONTINUE TO GROW AT A RATE THREE TIMES FASTER THAN THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

There is nothing that can be done with your current tax bill, EXCEPT PAY IT. It is too late for this year, but for next year the renters and homeowners must do the following:

A. Advise your elected officials of your dissatisfaction with the large increases.

B. Make input during budget hearings, which will begin early in 1978.

C. Appear at Public Governmental Meetings when tax rates are set, summer of 1978.

D. Vote only for those officials who appear to be showing good fiscal responsibility.

Theme of a new book

Disciples made frontier contributions to liberty

tribution to freedom is the freedom on the frontier Spirit of '76," created for theme of a new book "Experiment in Liberty: The Ideal of Freedom in the Experience of the Disciples of Christ" by E. Osborn, professor of American church history at the School of Theology, Claremont.

Although the professor does not claim for his denomination a larger contribution to freedom than other religious groups, Osborn does cite substantial illustrations for his thesis that freedom was a core motive for the rise of the Disciples tradition in America.

The denomination emerged on the American frontier during the first decade of the 19th century. It arose from strands which included the Cane Ridge revivals and the "Campbellites" of Pennsylvania.

The two groups merged in Lexington, Kentucky in 1832. The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

Although its early 19th century revivals were frontier - emotional, the denomination generally has been marked by its rational approach. Evangelism has been by persuasion.

Lyndon B. Johnson, the most recent Disciples occupant of the White House, said his favorite text, learned from his parents, was "Come now, let us reason together.

Osborn's book notes that the early groups developed which caused their break with the Presbyterians and Baptists over their opposition to creeds and forms. "No creed but Christ," they said. Each congregation was to decide its own direc-

Their aim was to "restore the New Testament church in doctrine, ordinances, and life." They were anti clerical and operated with a lay ministry until strong demands for education emerged.

The Disciples now sponsor 17 colleges and six theological schools, Claremont being their seminary on the Pacific coast. The denomination has 4,500 churches, 1,300,000 members, and 6,500 ordained ministers.

The new book is an expansion of Osborn's 1976 Forrest F. Reed Lectures before the Disciples of Christ Historical Society. The Bicentennial addresses emphasized freedom.

Abraham Lincoln's parents, Osborn said, had moved to Illinois. James A. Garfield, 20th U.S. presiwas head of the school in Ohio which is now Hiram College

Pilgrims hold annual festival

Place in Claremont will welcome 10,000 guests at the 29th annual Pilgrim Festival Friday and Saturday. Demure 17th Century bonnets and buckled hats will mark the 300 "pilgrims," all retired to Pilgrim Place from lifetime roles as ministers, missioneries, YWCA and YMCA workers or teachers of religion.

High point of each of the two festival days is the historical pagenat, "Pilgrims Triumphant," enacted at 2 p.m. on the outdoor stage

Earlier each day some visitors will shop at the bazaar benefiting the health services of the retirement community while others tour the 32 acres of independent homes and gardens on the motorized "Mayflower on - wheels.

Children are attracted to the Pilgrim puppet show and "glue-in.

Eventually the smell of hot turkey casserole will

Church marks

anniversary

United westmont Methodist Church, 1791 W. Ninth St Pomona will celebrate its 30th anniversary 5 p.m. Sunday. The theme is "Remember When..." All former pastors and members of the church and present United Methodist ministers in Pomona have been invited to share their memories.

The church began in 1884 as part of the Azusa Circuit of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In 1887, the Rev. Elgin C. Knott, father of Walter Knott of Knott's Berry Farm, organized a congregation in Pomona with 10 members. The first church was at the corner of Mission Boulevard and Park

When the area of Westmont was opened in West Pomona in 1947, the church moved under the Westmont walnut trees. The first church unit in the new location was completed in November 1947 and was used as the sanctuary and fellowship hall for the next eight years.

In 1959 a $120,000 sanctuary and adjoining facilitites were dedicated and the early unit became the social hall. Ten ministers have served the church and the present minister, Antonio R. Flores was appointed in 1974.

Sunday services include Sunday school, 9:15 a.m. worship services, 10:30 a.m.; and youth fellowship, 6:30 p.m. The church also serves as a site for the senior citizens noon nutritional program, sponsored by the city of Pomona

The celebration will include music by the youth and a quartet, and a slide show. For information concerning the celebration call (714) 622-3644 or the church office, (714) 622-7998 or 629-6411

Everyone who lives at Pilgrim Place helps with the festival. Many work the year - round dressing corncob pilgrim dolls or collecting foreign ones, embroidering, knitting, weav-ing, making candies and cookies or holiday decorations for sale at the bazaar. Some of them have grown chrysanthemum trees - 600 of the birghtly blooming miniatures - as well as many other kinds of plants.

Every Pilgrim and many of their friends give some cherished object to the festival bazaar's "treasure table" or Oriental table.

New this year will be sealed bids for a boat, not the "Mayflower" or one of the two replicas that glide along the roads of Pilgrim Place on festival days, but a 14 - foot hand - crafted Folbot "Sportabout" made by the late Lucius Barrows.

The boat will be exhibited at Pilgrim Place during the two festival days and the sealed bids will be received until 3 p.m., Saturday. With the boat goes a nine - horse power outboard motor, a trailer to haul the boat in and other nautical equip-

In 1798 we needed a navy. Boy, did we need a navy!

We were just over our troubles with the Barbary pirates when we were faced with the threat of a new war on the seas. This time with France.

So, Congress authorized the President to commission ships to provide protection for the United States. And the American people loaned their new country $711,700 in partial payment of the vessels.

Today, Savings Bonds can help keep both you and America above water. And it's easy when you buy them at your bank or through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

So, take stock in America. Buy United States Savings Bonds. They're a watertight investment.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (44% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Foster parents seek more funds for children

Foster parents in the West End are seeking increased funds from the county to care for the children who live in their homes.

Such children are living away from their own parents for many reasons. Some have been neglected or abused, sexually molested or removed from the custody of parents by the courts. Others are awaiting adoption, on probation, have been abandoned or are developmentally disabled or emotionally troubled.

Some 723 children are living in foster homes in San Bernardino County. There are only 547 foster care homes in the county, so many families have taken in more than because of lack of funds.

"Foster parents receive only 18 to 23 cents an hour to provide for foster children," explained Carolyn Sikora, a member of the group and the foster mother of three children.

"Only $10 a month goes to the foster parent for taking care of the child — one penny an hour — the rest goes to the child's needs," she added.

But, she claimed, the money is inadequate and should be increased.

The West End group has acquired the services of Ontario attorney Donald Haslem to represent them in "trying to get a just amount for these children" Mrs. Sikora said

Foster care payments are earmarked for four basic needs, including room and board, clothing, personal needs and care and supervision.

"In 1971, we received between $61.44 and $73.79 for room and board, depending on the child's age. Now we receive between $55 and $75," she said.

Mrs. Sikora asked, "Can you keep a teen-ager in clothes for $26 a month? Can you take this same teen-ager and buy him what he needs for school in September for $100? Foster parents have to and it is less for younger children," she added.

Mike Decker, special services program administrator for the San Bernardino County Department of Public Social Services, cited these figures for foster care.

Foster parents receive $127.50 a month for infants through children aged 6; $137.50 a month for children aged 7 through 12; and $167.50 a month for teen-agers 13 through 20, according to Decker.

In addition, foster parents receive a special state allotment of $12.50 per month, he said.

The West End foster parent group gathered Monday night to organize a campaign to convince the county that more money should be allocated for children.

Attorney Haslem presented the group with an analysis of foster care payments in other Southern California counties. The counties used in the comparison have economic bases similar to San Bernardino county, explained Mrs. Sikora.

Figures compiled by the attorney indicated that San Bernardino County ranks below most others (except Riverside County) in payments for infants through children age 12 and below all nine counties for children 13 to 20

The counties used for the comparison were Kern, Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Riverside, San Luis Obispo, Centura and Imperial.

Mrs. Sikora said the aim of the group is to bring county payments up to the median of the other counties.

This would mean, according to the attorney's calculations, that payments for infants through age 6 should be increased to $155.75; youngsters 7 to 12, $166.75 and young people 13 to 20, $198.50.

The proposed increases range from 18 to 21 percent.

The West End group plans to take their requests to the county supervisors in December.

Mrs. Sikora said two other improvements sought by the parents will be payment of clothing allotments when the children first arrive in the foster home and more immediate Medi-Cal coverage for children.

Both are usually delayed for some weeks, said Mrs. Sikora.

These payments are combined county, state and federal money distributed by the county's income maintenance department, Decker explained.

"In San Bernardino County, foster parents have been trying to upgrade our foster homes by taking courses. Chaffey College has prepared foster parents to help these special children, but now we need the county's help," Mrs. Sikora said. "We are losing good foster homes and it is partly because the finances are not enough to support these children without reaching into our own pockets."

Decker explained that several different agencies and departments place children in homes with foster parents.

"The focus of our agency is to work with the natural family and re-establish stability so the child can be returned," he explained. "Many foster home placements are very short term."

If natural family stability cannot be achieved, the child is either adopted, placed under guardianship or under long-term foster placement, Decker noted.

Relatives are generally sought out as the first alternatives for permanent placement, he added.

Decker, sympathetic to the cause of the foster parents and yet aware of the needs of other groups including the aged, said, "Foster parents don't go into this as a business to make money. I do feel these children are brought into custody by the county and are the county's

He added, "We have a responsibility not only to provide sufficient funds for the child's maintenance but also to provide appropriate supervision."

Decker said foster parent care in San Bernardino County has never been of better quality than it is now.

The emergency foster care placement — called a shelter care program — is another form of foster care. For this service, parents are given $10 a day to care for an infant or child up to 12 years of age and $15 a day for children 12 and over, Decker said.

But these foster parents "must be available 24 hours a day, become involved with the agencies handling the children, go to court and are extremely short term parents," he said.

Parents are dealing here with a child in extreme circumstances, he said. Abuse or battering has been very recent.

Tax monies are used to fund the foster parent program in the county and the state. Each year, Decker said, budget proposals are submitted after comparisons to five other counties and meetings with foster parents throughout the county.

An increase was requested last year, but was denied because of priorities on other programs.

Decker pointed out, "Being a foster parent is a difficult role. Taking a child into your home and loving him and knowing he may have to leave any time is a hard

African experience ahead for Uplanders

An Upland man plans to bring his skills as a machinist and a minister to Africa next year as part of a teaching team affiliated with Campus Crusade for Christ.

John C. Shepherd, the minister, and his family will spend at least two years in Kenya, in east Africa, where he expects to teach about machinery and religion. His assignment is only tentative at this point, however.

The Shepherds are staff members of the Agape Movement, one of 11 ministries of Campus Crusade for Christ, an interdenominational organization founded in 1951 at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Campus Crusade for Christ has a staff of 6,200 throughout the United States and 88 other nations.

Shepherd said he chose Kenya after representatives of the Agape Movement told him during his last week of training that someone with his skills as a machinist was being sought for service there.

He has worked as a machinist for 14 years, including time with three West End companies, and as a teacher for two years, one year each with Mt. San Antonio

College and Colton High School.

He has also been active in his church, First Baptist Church of Upland, and is an ordained deacon and a licensed minister.

His wife, Nelda, attributed his choice of Kenya simply to "much prayer and preparation."

Both of them, however, and their three children.

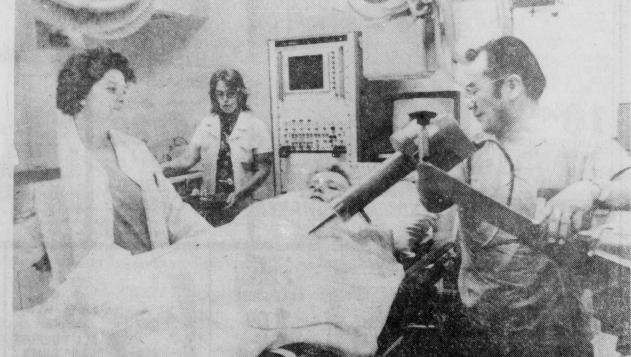

Both of them, however, and their three children — Jon, 12, Jana, 9, and Jerad, 2 — are looking forward to going to Africa.

Shepherd, who has never been overseas, said he never thought much about the possibility of traveling abroad but welcomes it as an opportunity to meet people and develop lasting friendships.

The Shepherd family will have to muster a team of individuals, businesses, churches and civic groups to provide the financial support to complete their training and to go to their assignment in Kenya.

The additional training sessions, which will last three and a half months, will begin in mid-January.

SERVICES — Montclair Doctors' Hospital is one of several hospitals in the West End. To improve its service, the facility last year spent $500,000 on this heart catheterization device which detects obstructions in the blood vessels of the heart. Enacting a catheterization is Ruth Kraft, on the

Abusive parents can find help

By BOB ROBINSON

Debbie saw her doll in the corner of the room, by the door, where daddy had thrown it. He said she was a bad girl and took it from her.

But she'd stopped crying. She was a good girl now. She finally decided it was all right if she got her dolly.

Debbie stood up but the pain in her leg and back was so great that she had to sit down again. She looked at the red stripe that started on the calf of her leg and worked its way up in strips to her side. She couldn't see the one on her back, where the protective skin had been torn in places from her backbone.

It hurt. She wanted to cry again, but she'd learned that it only made daddy madder, so she didn't.

Instead, she crawled across the room to her doll.

Meet Debbie. She's three years old. And she's a victim of child abuse ... one of an estimated 10,000 cases a year in San Bernardino County.

She also could become another statistic. She could become one of the two deaths that occur in the United States every day. Or she could suffer brain damage, become mentally retarded.

Assuming she survives, however, the chances are pretty good that she herself will grow into an abusive parent.

Exactly what is child abuse? As in Debbie's case, it can mean physical abuse. Or it can mean neglect, sexual abuse, emotional abuse or failure to thrive.

Anytime a parent dumps negative feelings such as anger and rage on a child, there is abuse. The assault can be verbal or physical.

Most parents engage in one or more forms of abuse at one time or another during their parenting years. This doesn't mean they have an abuse problem ... only that they're human. The abuse becomes a problem when it becomes a pattern of behavior.

No one really knows why parents abuse their children, only that they wish they didn't and suffer anguish and guilt feelings about their behavior. In most cases, they want their relationship with their children to improve ... they just don't know how to go about it.

California law requires that professionals in areas where there is contact with children must report any suspected cases of child abuse. This includes physicians, social workers, teachers and child care operators.

The Department of Mental Health and the Child Protective Services Division of the Welfare Department request that you report any suspected cases. Help can be obtained for abusive parents, ir most cases without the necessity of removing the child from his home.

Politicians exempt from tax

astonishing displays of cynical, selfish, money grubbing politics that Washington has ever seen, House Representatives voted Oct. 26 totriple the maximum Social Security tax, while taking great pains to exempt members of George works for 30 years in a civil service job and retires in 1967, at age 55. During his last three years on the job, he earned $16,500. That entitled him to an immediate federal pension of a little over $9,000 a year.

When he retired from the government, George took a job in the private sector at the same rate of pay: $16,500. For the last 10 years, he has been collecting his pay plus his federal pension, which was increased frequently to compensate for inflation. And since he is now in the private sector, he has also been paying the maximum Social Security tax.

Now that George is 65, he

FREEWAY PAVER — A handful of men can pave a mile of freeway each day with a machine called a slip form paver. The equipment extends across four lanes of what will become an extension of the Devore Freeway, between the San Bernardino and Pomona freeways. A dry-mix cement is fed into the paver, which has frontend vibrators to remove air bubbles from the mixture. As the machine inches forward, it leaves behind a smooth - surfaced freeway that has already set sufficiently to stand unsupported.

Completion set for Devore extension

Construction of an extension of the Devore Freeway that will connect the San Bernardino and Pomona freeways is scheduled to be completed by April, 1979.

A 1.2 mile portion of the extension — allowing motorists to travel south of the Devore and San Bernardino Freeway interchange to an exit at Jurupa Avenue, north of Mission Boulevard — will be completed by early 1978. E. L. Yaeger Construction Co. of Riverside will complete the 2.3 mile extension under two contracts totaling $15,241,695. Included in the project is construction of an interchange at the intersection of the Devore and Pomona freeways.

Kasler Corp. of San Bernardino is handling paving operations and is a major subcontractor on the project.

The Devore Freeway is planned to eventually connect with the 395 Freeway, which will extend to San Diego. Construction of the route through the Norco-Corona area has been delayed by court action, however.

Supervisors refuse salary proposal for ballot

By PETER WONG

Despite the pleas and threats of a citizens' group, the county board of supervisors refused Monday to put a proposal on the June ballot that would have allowed the county's voters to decide supervisors' salaries.

A leader of the citizens' group said afterward its members would circulate petitions next year in an effort to qualify the measure for the Nov. 7, 1978, ballot.

"And we intend to make this a campaign issue" against the only two county supervisors up for election next year, Jim Schlahta, a San Bernardino teacher and leader of the group, declared. "That's not a threat — that's a fact."

He referred to the West End's representatives, Chairman Robert O. Townsend of Chino and Joseph Kamansky of Upland.

Except for brief comments by Supervisor Robert L. Hammock, the supervisors remained silent on the proposal to allow voters to decide supervisors' salaries and a counterproposal offered by the San Bernardino County Taxpayers' Association.

Kamansky, who took office one year ago today, said afterward he doesn't think the group (Concerned Citizens of San Bernardino County) will have much of an impact in next year's election, since most of its members are from San Bernardino.

Hammock, who as he campaigned in his San Bernardino district last year pledged he would seek to have the county's voters decide what supervisors should be paid, formally proposed an amendment to the county charter to do that.

But he could not muster the support of any other supervisor for it and didn't advocate it forcefully.

However, "it would be, in my opinion, a total lack of faith if I didn't follow through on what I said during the campaign." Hammock added.

The issue of supervisors' salaries became an important one in the aftermath of the supervisors' attempt last year to vote themselves a 40 percent pay invoted against it (Townsend) is still on the board, the supervisors as a group are still taking a political beating over last year's attempted pay increase of 40 percent.

After his own proposal failed to win any support, Hammock said:

"I do agree that some proposal—any proposal—that will take it (salary setting) out of the hands of the supervisors would be not only in the best interests of the taxpayers but also of the board of supervisors themselves. I, for one, don't want that right."

A counterproposal offered by the San Bernardino County Taxpayers' Association would relieve the supervisors of much of the responsibility for that.

Of the supervisors' present authority to raise their own salaries, "we don't feel that is compatible with our philosophy of checks and balances," William R. Leonard, a real estate broker and representative of the taxpayers' association, declared.

Leonard outlined the key points in the association's proposal:

— It would limit increases in supervisors' salaries each year to the change in the Consumer Price Index or 7 percent, whichever is lower. The limit would be made part of the county charter. Any increase would have to be reviewed by the grand jury before it took effect.

— The grand jury would review the supervisors' total compensation every three years, based on such factors as the county's rank in population, assessed valuation and salaries, compared with other Southern California counties; current economic conditions; comparison with equivalent positions; changes in supervisors' responsibilities and their expense allowances.

 After the grand jury made its comprehensive report, the supervisors could change their salaries by a four-fifths vote.

— The right of the people to vote on supervisors' salaries would be guaranteed by petition. If a referendum is called, the pay increase would be suspended.

Leonard said later the association offered its proposal "because they (supervisors) spend too much time debating among themselves (on the question of salaries) when they could be doing other things."

He said the provisions of the proposal should be written into the county charter so that the people can make it clear how supervisors' salaries should be set, once and for

Townsend suggested that much of the association's proposal could be enacted through an ordinance, and County Administrative Officer Earl Goodwin said county charter provisions "live for a long, long time."

But Schlahta said he favors a charter amendment "because I want it damned difficult for anyone to change it."

crease, from $21,612 to $30,178. After a public outcry, however, they settled for only 5 percent.

On Aug. 1, with Hammock absent, the supervisors voted themselves an 8 percent pay increase, from $22,692 to $24,844, effective Oct. 8.

Although two of the present supervisors (Kamansky and Hammock) took office after last year's series of events and the lane was series of

High school district sets bond election to expand classrooms

A March 7 bond election asking funds for a new 2,500 - student tri-communities high school was tentatively approved by Chaffey Joint Union High School District trustees Monday night.

They agreed to ask a consulting firm what projects, if any, should be added to the ballot measure to attract affirmative votes.

Trustee Raymond J. Sarrio suggested that step, saying the prime goal should be gaining funds for a new high school to relieve overcrowding at Alta Loma High School.

It was agreed Mike D. Dirksen, district superintendent, will obtain consulting firm proposals and then call a special trustees' meeting to decide on hiring a firm.

As tentatively approved, the ballot measure will propose only one added project — a renovation of North and South halls at Chaffey High School.

The $1.2 million renovation would be aimed in part at reducing the impact of Euclid Avenue traffic noise said to interfere with teaching in classrooms.

The renovation would include soundproofing, heating, air conditioning (so windows can be shut to keep out noise) and corrections to comply with fire and

The new tri - communities high school would cost an estimated $17.5 million and have a campus layout similar to that at Ontario High School safety standards.

Superintendent Dirksen had suggested consideration of still other projects, but Monday night he recommended only the new high school and the North and South halls' renovation.

Other possibilities include remodeling the present Chaffey High gym or building a new one, adding classrooms at Alta Loma and building a transportation center and warehouse.

Curtiss D. Bonneville, chairman of a citizens' committee which recommended the bond election, said the committee felt the renovations at Chaffey were "of critical importance."

He said more projects were not added because "we did not want to muddy the waters" and thus possibly lose affirmative votes for the new high school.

School districts able to increase studentspending

Seven local school districts which rate low in how much they can spend per student will be able to boost that spending by as much as 50 percent and reduce property tax rates over the next five years.

State school finance legislation adopted last month will make it possible.

It will reduce but not eliminate the revenue gap between so-called low wealth and high wealth districts.

Seven local districts will gain substantial sums this year, amounting to a potential total of nearly $2.8 million.

State preliminary estimates include Ontario-Montclair, $695,000; Fontana Unified, $578,000; Chaffey Joint Union High School, $549,000; Chino Unified, $503,- 000; Upland, $264,000; Alta Loma, $104,000, and Central, $89,000.

But the impact of the legislation will span the next five years.

A major aim is to comply with the state Supreme Court's Serrano ruling that the present state school finance system is unconstitutional.

The court found that the system discriminates against districts which rank low in terms of what a given property tax rate will net them in revenue per student.

To correct this imbalance, the legislation gives these low wealth districts a bigger state aid increase than moderate and high wealth districts.

It also shifts some funds from wealthy to low wealth listricts.

Computer projections produced after the legislation was adopted by a joint conference committee of the state Senate and Assembly estimated the impact on local districts.

The projections estimate that the Ontario-Montclair, Upland, Chino Unified, Alta Loma, Central, Mt. Baldy and Fontana school districts each will be able to increase spending per student by more than $500 over five years.

The amounts those districts could spend per student last year ranged between $1,000 and $1,200.

The projections estimate that the Chaffey Joint Union High School and Cucamonga districts will be able to increase spending per student by more than $400 over the same five years.

Amounts they could spend per student last year ranged between $1,200 and $1,500.

Actual figures over the five-year span could turn out to be different because the projections assume no major changes in enrollment and assessed wealth.

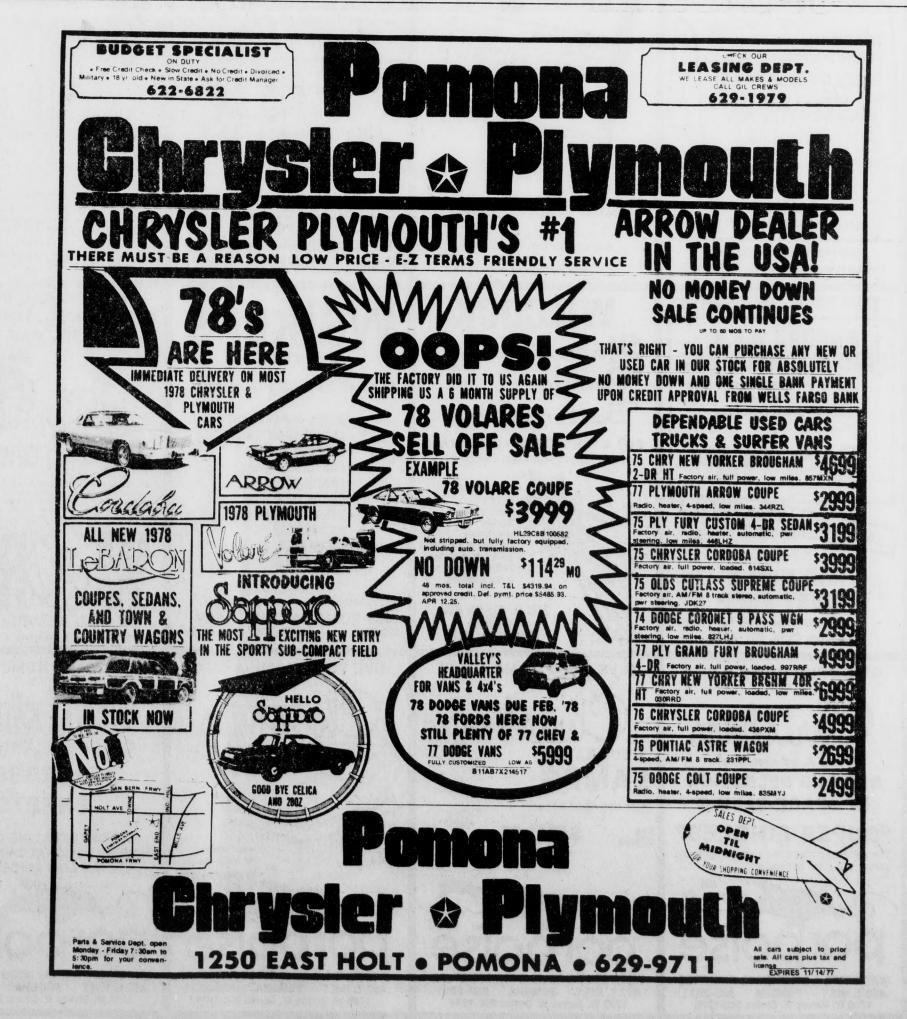

According to the estimates, the per student spending more than 1,000 students will decrease from $203 to $115.

The state projections also estimate general purpose tax rate reductions for local districts over the next five gap among elementary districts in the West End with

These include Chaffey Joint Union High School, 75 cents; Mt. Baldy, 70 cents; Chino Unified, 50 cents; Fontana Unified, 43 cents; Cucamonga, 34 cents; Upland and Central, 10 cents, and Ontario-Montelair, Alta Loma and Etiwanda, 5 cents.
